Warm-Up

BUDDY SUN™

O.S.D. Ecotech Group

is a company specialising in the design and manufacture of pest control devices.

The company was founded in 1983 as a pest control service before being transformed into a production group with the acquisition by the current owner of a 50% share in 2000 and the remaining 50% in 2004.

The company currently holds a variety of patents and proprietary brands registered worldwide, and has a well-established intercontinental export business and a widespread presence throughout the Italian market.

From the very beginning, OSD was involved in the quest for sector-related solutions for controlling pest birds and thus, developed numerous production ranges including the Ecobirds™ brand which has become a benchmark in the professional installer sector.

Ecobirds™ products are exported to over 50 countries and now represent one of the most comprehensive ranges available on the market for professional installers.

ECO BIRDS™

Through affiliation to the 1st national circuit of professional installers, Ecobirds™ has developed a widespread network that covers almost 95% of Italy.

Over 80 Italian companies have chosen Ecobirds™ and benefit from a consultancy, design and technical support service.

A specific site dedicated to professional installers and a targeted web marketing campaign promotes a niche and highly specialised activity aimed at both private and institutional customers.

QUALITY

The excellent relationship developed between the companies of the group, partnerships with leading global producers, exclusive international distribution agreements and close collaboration with public sector bodies and institutions are important added values offered by OSD.

The steady growth over the years, driven by strategic and commercial choices, linked more to the interests of the customer and sector than to an exclusive personal advantage, plus a widespread presence on the national and international market, make OSD the ideal partner.

The short-sighted price war in recent years has consolidated those companies that bucked the trend and believed, and still believe, in the quality of the product and the quality of service. OSD has always been an advocate of savings without, however, falling into the discounting trap which has so negatively affected the quality of the market.
